FIRST SHOT FILMMAKING

Craig Lawson – Independent Film Producer & Into Film Practitioner

"This session clearly and simply demonstrated how easy it is to incorporate film into lessons. It gave practical ideas and inspired me to adapt it in my lessons."

Using film within your classroom can be an effective way of engaging pupils and enhancing subjects across the curriculum. This hands on session, is designed to provide teachers with the practical skills and confidence to support their pupils to make films, using an iPad and iMovie.

During the session, delegates will:

- Learn how to use a range of filmmaking techniques in a classroom context
- Explore how film can enhance enjoyment and understanding of the curriculum and impact on attainment
- Understand the life skills that are developed through filmmaking.
- Develop an understanding of film as a creative art form, including exploring the importance of editing, crafting and 'framing' a shot and how to create a coherent story through visual imagery
- To understand the different roles involved in filmmaking and how these can be applied across different groups, times and scales.
- Find out more about Film Club and the Leeds Young Film Golden Owls Awards 2017

Presented by Craig Lawson; an Independent Film Producer with over twenty years' experience of the media industries. Craig is Lead Producer at Access Moving Image; an award winning production company produces entertaining and thought provoking films for cinema and internet audiences, along with highly effective communication films for business clients in the private, public and third sectors.
